A LADY OSTEOPATH

Among many prominent professional people to visit Ocala the latest is Dr. Ruth S. Arnold, an osteopath of Cincinnati, O. Dr. Arnold has the past four weeks visited every city of consequence in Florida and has decided to locate permanently in Ocala and establish a general practice. This will include acute work as well as chronic. Other cities as large as Ocala have several osteopaths. We hope that the people here will appreciate their opportunity to get osteopathic treatments and patronize the new physician who has complimented our city by choosing it from many desirable cities in this state. We wish her success.

Mr. Roy Galloway has lost his valuable bulldog. He has been keeping the dog shut up at night in a hutch back of the fire station, and had just released the animal this morning when she was killed. Mr. E. B. Duncan was driving his car by the fire station, when the dog rushed out at another dog just in time to meet the auto. Two wheels passed over the animal, causing fatal injuries. The dog was a pretty and valuable animal and Mr. Galloway and his friends were much attached to her. Mr. Duncan did not see the dog until too late to check his car.

Mr. T. W. Smith, collector of internal revenue, is in the city for a day or so. Explaining the workings of the new war taxes to the people of his district is keeping him quite busy.

Mr. J. S. Field of the Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore and his secretary, Mr. J. B. Jones, were guests of the Harrington last night. This morning, they were taken out to Silver Springs and other points of interest around the city by Mr. John Taylor. They were much pleased with what they saw.

Mr. M. M. de Bardelaben, of Atlanta, is in the city for a few days visiting with the families of Messrs. C. L. West and A. J. Brigrance, and has been here for some days.

Mr. H. A. Kramer has rented one of the front rooms in the new arrangement of the Yonge block on Fort King avenue, and has moved his real estate office into it.

MISSING MEN MUST HAVE BEEN MURDERED

Gardner Brothers Evidently the Victims of Their Treacherous Guide
Welaka, Feb. 3.—Four searching parties went to Fowler's camp on Raft Creek yesterday to look for the bodies of H. S. and A. Gardner, who are believed to have been murdered by their treacherous guide. The camp was in great disorder, much valuable property lying around and shotgun shells strewn all over the ground. A number of things had been burned in the camp stove.

A bunch of keys, one of which was to a safety deposit box, bearing a number, and which has been identified as the property of Alonzo Gardner, was an important find.

In dragging the river a sweater was brought to the surface, but no bodies. The field all around the camp was investigated but no trace could be found. Heavy rains have obscured any trails or signs of blood or of a struggle and neither were there any guns found.

About 100 yards to the left of the camp in a secluded spot was found where a fire had been built and some one had heated water in a pan and had no doubt washed or cleaned up.

Mrs. A. Gardner, wife of one of the missing men, is at Welaka.

First Rounded Table Knives.
During the first half of the seventeenth century Cardinal Richelieu, the founder of the French Academy, became offended by the rude manner in which pointed knives were used and thereafter caused his knives to be rounded. Before long the fashion was generally adopted, and the pointed blade, which, in lieu of a fork, had been useful in picking up pieces of meat, was abandoned. Since the seventeenth century the form of table knife has remained substantially as we know it.

Path of the Kakapo.
Several birds make regular paths to and from their resorts. Those of the Antarctic penguins are noted by all explorers in their region. Very noticeable are those in the haunts of the kakapo, the large, rock-dwelling, burrow-nesting owl-like parrot of the mountains of New Zealand. They beat down regular paths along the spurs and ridges where they abound so that a person might be excused for supposing they were meant for human feet. It is along these avenues that the birds go to and fro on their nocturnal rambles, and as they march they snip off and perhaps eat every protruding spear of grass or weed keeping the path perfectly clear. When the path is buried in snow they still follow it on the surface and soon beat down a track.

Affected the Hair.
The fair creature's head looked like a haystack. Each separate hair stood out. "What's the matter, dear? Your hair is standing on end." I put it up in curl papers last night, and the newspaper I used was filled with horrible crimes."
